OCEAN SHORE RAILROAD MAY BE REBUILT BY NEW COMPANY

Estimated That Million Dollar Investment Will Furnish Good Service

If tentative plans now under consideration by influential capitalists of San Francisco and San Mateo county are carried out the coast side will once again have a railroad. While the building of the road may be a little remote, it will be a reality if the promoters receive the proper encouragement. Farmers of the coast side must co-operate in every way. There is no doubt that the rich country in that section of the county will support a railroad if the public will patronize it. The Ocean Shore railroad failed because the artichoke growers and others failed to give it their business. A great part of the products of that section were sent to the city in large trucks. The shipments should have been by rail.

The plan provides for laying tracks on the old roadbed of the Ocean Shore railroad and operation of gasoline motor cars thereon for passengers, steam engines to be used for freight trains. The type of gasoline engine to be used is said to have been used with great success on a number of eastern lines.

As set forth by Major Edwin W. Moore, superintending technical engineer of the proposed road, the line can be built at a cost of between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000. Promotters of the project are asking San Mateo county to subscribe $200,000 in addition to providing for the right of way.

Horace Nelson of the Bank of Halfmoon Bay has been appointed as chairman of the San Mateo county general committee. He will at once take steps to get the movement started in San Mateo county. It is pointed out that the new line will tap a district in which it is estimated there are 8,000,000,000 feet of timber now standing, providing 10,000 carloads of lumber annually. In addition to this there will be the enormous artichoke crop to be hauled and fertilizer, which is so badly needed on account of the intensive farming, to be hauled in the other direction.

In speaking of the plans Major Moore says: "The cost of operating the cars as compared with the figures of other lines will be approximately 14 cents as against $2.06, at which the old Ocean Shore steam trains were operated. From surveys and estimates we have made we can double the traffic, giving 100 per cent better service than the old road for an entire cost of $1,000,000, whereas the former railroad was capitalized for $7,000,000, with a construction cost of $4,500,000."

It is planned to operate on a schedule of a train every hour during the day and one every 15 minutes during rush hours.

INTERESTING NOTES FROM HIGH SCHOOL

Sequoia Union High School is continually growing. No one will fail to think so when he hears that in a little over a week the total enrollment will be approximately 354, while the actual attendance will be 344. Most of the new students will be graduates of the Central school, while the others will come from various parts of the district. If this rate of increase keeps up our school will be known as one of the large schools of the coast and in time it will most probably measure up with those of San Mateo and Palo Alto.

This evening at 8:15 Sigma Delta Kappa, the girls' dramatic club of Sequoia, will present the plays "Dolls" and "Food" in Masonic Hall. The girls under Miss Boyle's supervision have been working hard to make the performance a success and there is no doubt but that it will be. Several in the cast have taken part in previous Sigma Delta Kappa productions and this in itself is sufficient to guarantee good entertainment.

"Food," a one-act play, is rich in action and dramatic effects and, although called a tragedy of the future, can easily be termed a comedy of the present.

"Dolls" is a lively play of three scenes which will be sure to bring before the minds of the older ones of the audience reminiscences of the past..

Everyone who is interested in the high school and its development should not fail to be present at tonight's performance, since by such support the school is encouraged in its aims for higher things.

The program will be as follows:

"Food"

Irene, the wife.....Lucy Bentley
Basil, the husband....Maude Stilleson
Harold, the lover.....Mura Stilleson

PREDICTIONS OF SAN MATEO SEERESS

How Mrs. Toccoah H. Thorsen, 68 North F. street, San Mateo, foretold the recent suicide of C. Frederick Kohl has been revealed by friends of the seeress in San Mateo recently. The prediction was made in a horoscope prepared for Mrs Kohl November 8, 1921, seventeen days prior to the millionaire's tragic end at Pebble Beach, near Monterey.

The remarriage of Mrs. Kohl, which the horoscope predicts will take place within the next two years, is being widely discussed in social circles of Burlingame and Hillsborough, according to reports.

Mrs. Kohl is accounted one of the most beautiful and accomplished women of San Francisco and Washington society.

The horoscope, which also foretold the present financial difficulties of Mrs. Kohl with regard to her share in the $5,000,000 estate left by Mr. Kohl, says that the widow will have a "rosy future" and that her next marriage will be a most happy one.

The peculiar powers possessed by Mrs. Thorsen, who has long been a confidential adviser to persons high in financial and social circles, have also been revealed in her prediction of the death of John Grieg, a well known San Mateo business man, and her finding of Warren Pike, son of a New York banker, who had been missing from home for more than three years.

When the case of young Pike was brought to her attention on a recent trip to Washington, D. C., Mrs. Thorsen located the missing youth in Phoenix, Ariz., where he was employed as a laborer, after having wandered from his parents' home following an accident which destroyed his memory.

Many other examples of the powers possessed by the seeress could be told and it is said that her mail is crowded with inquiries from persons anxious to enlist her aid in locating missing relatives or in solving various tangles in their affairs.

FAMILY REUNION

Rev. and Mrs. C. H. Stevens had a reunion of relatives at a dinner given at their residence on Monday. It was a joyous occasion. Among those present was the mother of Mr. Stevens from Alameda, his brother, wife and four children from Sausalito, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Fox, Miss Kate Gesselbracht of Chicago, Wilbur Doxsee, wife and child. To further gladden the event a nephew of Mr. Stevens arrived in San Francisco from China at 9:30 Monday morning and was able to be present at the dinner. The young man is an engineer on one of the Chinese liners.

There is no opposition to the proposition and there is no doubt that the district will be organized. This will leave only the northern part of San Mateo county without a high school organization. A movement is now on foot to form a union high school district to be known as Jefferson and to be composed of the districts of Colma, Daly City, San Pedro and Visitacion. San Mateo county is noted for the number and high standing of its high schools.

ANOTHER WILL FILED IN DORSEY ESTATE

Another will has been filed in the Gilbert Maxwell Dorsey estate. It was made on November 4, 1921, and was filed by a sister of the deceased, Rebecca Lee Dorsey of Los Angeles. By the terms of this instrument the entire estate, valued at $35,000, was left to Miss Dorsey. The will filed for probate on December 7, 1921, was executed on November 7 at San Carlos, just one day before Dorsey's death. This will was filed by the Mercantile Trust Company of San Francisco. By its terms the trust company is named as executor and a large portion of his estate is left to a cousin, Elizabeth A. Hindman. After numerous small bequests were made the residue of the estate was left to Elizabeth A. Hindman and the sister, share and share alike.

It is the contention of Attorney Lyndon Bowring of Los Angeles, who filed the will Tuesday, that the former will was not properly witnessed and is null and void.

Besides his sister, Dorsey left a half brother, Franklin Osborne Dorsey, and several nephews and nieces by a deceased brother.

The complaint does not state the nature of the business engaged in by the parties or its location or when the agreement was entered into.

Obituaries

August Johnson

On New Year's Day, when all were enjoying the advent of 1922, August Johnson, well known in San Mateo county, passed peacefully to the great beyond at the Quinnivere Hospital, following a brief illness. For 40 years the deceased had been employed by the Morgan Oyster Company at its beds on the bay. He retired from active work five years ago. For a time he was employed as foreman at the company's beds near Belmont, afterward becoming superintendent of the property at Millbrae. At times he had as many as 50 men in his charge He was a genial, good natured man, treating all with courtesy and kindness. Those visiting the besd were shown every consideration and went away with a supply of choice bivalves.

Mr. Johnson was popular with all for his kindness to others and for his chairty. Some time ago he deposited a certain amount of money with his old friend, Guy P. Hull, to be expended for his burial. Johnson was a generous man, giving freely of his means to those in distress so that when the winter of life came it found him short of this world's goods. However, he had sufficient to see him safely over the divide. What more did he want?

The funeral took place from the James Crowe Company's chapel on Wednesday, Rev. H. C. Stevens conducted the service. He paid a glowing tribute to the aged man, telling of his generosity and the good life he had led.

Johnson was a native of Sweden, aged 83 years. Interment was in Union cemetery.

TOSCANI WANTS DAMAGES FROM ANDRUS TAXI SERVICE

Through his attorney, John D. Willard, Joseph Toscani of Palo Alto filed a suit for damages in the superior court against J. R. Andrus and Jane Andrus of Palo Alto to recover the sum of $11,343.40 for injuries alleged to have been sustained in a collision on the Middlefield road last June.

Toscani states he was a guest in one of the automobiles, which was proceeding along Middlefield road when the other car came out of the road leading to St. Patrick's Seminary and stopped directly in front of the car in which he was riding. His host, he contends, in an effort to avoid striking the other car, drove his machine directly into a tree at the side of the road, resulting in Toscani being thrown out and seriously injured. He alleges that he was cut over the right eye, sustained a concussion of the brain and fractured left knee cap, in addition to numerous other injuries. He asks for $10,000 personal damages, $150 for medical attention, $106.40 for hospital expense and $27 for medicines.

AUTOMOBILE BANDITS CAPTURED AND JAILED

Jack O'Keefe, Art Johnson and A. Lannes, desperate characters, came down the highway in a stolen machine on New Year's Day and began their holdup game. On the state highway near Menlo Park the trio held up a car in which were J. Nelson, G. Nelson and Mr. Smith. The men gave up $250 to the robbers. This was at 7:30 in the morning. The victims immediately reported the robbery and at once a hot chase was begun in search of the culprits. After securing the money the three men, who were accompanied by two women companions, started back to Redwood City, where they secured a good supply of gasoline and booze, and then made a wild dash for La Honda. Knowing that they were being pursued, they speeded to Halfmoon Bay. At Haywood Canyon the chase becoming hot ,they abandoned the car and all the five occupants of the mashine dashed iin different directions for the mountains. After a long chase A. Lennes was captured in the hills near Halfmoon Bay by Deputy Sheriff Charles Cavalli and Constable Simmons of the fourth township. O'Keefe was caught at the Byrnes store by Sheriff M. Sheehan and Johnson was captured by Deputy Sheriff Lampkin and Chief of Police Collins of Redwood City. The two girls became stuck in the mud near Halfmoon Bay and were easily taken. The five were brought to the jail here and this morning they will appear before Judge Griffin for arraignment. Lannes has secured the services of Albert Mansfield. The others have not as yet secured counsel

O'Keefe and Johnson on September 18, 1919, were admitted to probation by Judge Buock for robbing an oil station in the county. They were then aged 19 years. They are desperate characters. Both are San Francisco boys, brought up in the Mission.

TOWN TRUSTEES MAKE AWARD OF ELECTROLIER CONTRACT

Peculiar Equality in Bids for Furnishing New Fire Apparatus to Be Considered

The town trustees held a very busy session Tuesday evening. Much routine business was disposed of.

The bid of H. C. Reid & Co. of San Francisco, $14,848.25, for furnishing and installing the electroller street lighting system in Redwood City was accepted and the firm was awarded the contract. There were two other bids read at the meeting. They were somewhat higher than that of the successful bidder.

The new electroliers will be installed on Main street and Broadway between Main street and the railroad crossing and the state highway and Broadway. There will be 50 posts altogether and the system will be of the very latest design. It is understood that the contractors are ready to go ahead with the installation at once.

New Fire Apparatus

The trustees at this meeting also opened bids for furnishing the fire department a new triple combination pumping and chemical engine. Four firms submitted bids, together with specifications showing the style of engine. Bids were as follows:

Ahern-Fox Fire Engine Co....$12,840
Stutz Fire Engine Co..... 13,000
Seagrave Co. 13,000
American-La France Co..... 13,000

The board decided to take the four bids under consideration, deferring awarding the contract until the next meeting, January 16. In the meantime members will visit San Francisco and othe neaby cities and make inspections of engines now in use in an endeavor to decide which will be best suited for Redwood City.

On motion of Tuchsen, seconded by Trustee Kreiss, the street superintendent was instructed to purchase from Pratt & Cady Company of San Francisco a number of gate valves to be used for the new water pipe system that is to be installed. The amount to be paid for the material is $354.02. The city clerk, W. A. Price, explained that he had received quotations from two different firms and that the one accepted by the board was the lower.

Outsiders Want City Utilities

A number of residents of the Boyd and Kent tract appeared before the board and asked that their tract be given relief in the way of furnishing the property owners with water, electric lights and better sewer facilities. The district being outside of the city limits, the chairman said that the town trustees were powerless to do anything. He urged the delegation to seek relief from the county supervisors.

A complaint from George H. Gerwin of 114 Brewster avenue, complaining about the condition of the storm culvert at the corner of Brewster and Arch street was received and ordered filed.

A letter from R. H. K Smith, secretary-manager of the Redwood City Chamber of Commerce, asking action be taken to secure for Redwood City a suitable water front dockage, was ordered filed.

GAME LAW VIOLATION APPEARS FRAMEUP

Patrick McCormick, a former justice of the peace in the fifth township, was arrested at Pescadero by Deputy Game Warden Grant Tuesday for selling quail contrary to the state game laws. He appeared before Judge Griffin on Tuesday evening and after pleading guilty the court suspended judgment. The case against McCormick appeared fishy and savored much of a frameup The court therefore suspended judgment. It appeared that a brother of the defendant sold two small birds to the game warden. The whole case had all the earmarks of a frameup and the court was very quick to see the situation and acted accordingly.

UNDER WAY

It is gratifying to know that the supervisors are now in shape to do something definite on the Dumbarton bridge project. With the conditions fully outlined by the district attorney they have the lines marked out along which they may proceed. That they will do so is sure.

Should it be posisble to secure the aid of San Francisco it will be a condition that will help wonderfully. At least it appears feasible. Some way must be found to bring the Hetch Hetchy aqueduct across San Francisco Bay. A long tunnel from Oakland or Alameda would be a very expensive undertaking. Necessary repairs and care would make it still more undesirable and expensive. The Dumbarton bridge route is at once advantageous and feasible. What is more, it will assist in creating another highway outlet for the city, thus bringing about another advantage. For San Mateo county such a combination of forces means a reduction of the cost to the people of this county, as well as retaining control of the enterprise when once built.

Furthermore, the bridge will be a joint public enterprise. It will be a great public benefit primarily. Whatever returns there may be will go to the public as a whole and not to any private enterprise that will act as a toll taker for years to come.

San Mateo county people may rest assured that the supervisors and the county engineer will do their very best to bring about the construction of the bridge at an early date and at as little expense as posible to the people of the county.

THE COAST RAILROAD

People on the coast side of San Mateo county will be glad of the information that a new company has been formed to reconstruct the railroad down along the coast. It may be the backers of the old road were just a little premature in deciding to abandon their enterprise. Certainly it was not paying and rather than lose more money they tore up the tracks and left that rich territory without rail communication to the outside world.

Competition with the truck lines in the future will be as sharp as in the past. All of these means of transportation will be in the field for business. But the people who have incorporated to run the new line will have great advantages over those who attempted to operate the old Ocean Shore railroad. Improved and more economical means of operation can be utilized, which will mean lower rates to patrons as well as more expeditious service. Very likely electricity will be the motive power, although nothing definite on that topic has been announced. It would only be consistent, however, that this idea should be adopted, as incorporators of the new road are among the most insistent that the Southern Pacific electrify its lines down the peninsula.

The coast side of San Mateo county is rich in products. It needs more people to handle the business that is developing. Farming, lumbering, fishing are the industries that can be developed into production all the year around, with a steady market at San Francisco for everything that can be produced. Steady production will mean regular and paying traffic for the railroad. Then there can be developed seasonal production in the artichoke and truck farming lines that will add to the volume of freight to be transported.

It is also true that the coast side has wonderful scenic attractions. After the road shall have been in operation for a time it will be one of the regular things for tourists to this part of the world to take the ride down the coast from San Francisco. Mountains to the east and the grand ocean view to the west, with lovely little towns scattered all along the line like a string of pearls will make the trip a delightful one. With such men as Senator M. B. Johnson and his asosciates backing the enterprise it is bound to succeed. Here's to the success and prosperity of the new coast side railroad!

IMPROVING THE BAY

A few days ago the tentative plan of dyking the western shore of San Francisco Bay was promulgated. It is announced that a sea wall is to be constructed stretching from a point near San Francisco to Redwood City, then the tidelands area inside the wall to be filled by dredging material from outside the wall, using hydraulic means of transportation. At first the magnitude of the enterprise is rather astounding, but upon calm consideration it appears to be really praticable.

As to the advantages of the plan for the whole peninsula there can be no doubt whatever. San Francisco needs now a greater area for manufacturing plants. The time is not far distant when sections now devoted to wholesaling and manufacturing will be required for residential purposes. Down the peninsula they are bound to come. What is more, they must be located on land that is easy of access either from the land or water side or both.

Should the tentative plan materialize the engineers in charge will undoubtedly make a study of the canal systems of Holland, where millions of acres have been reclaimed by the dykes and put to good use for all sorts of purposes. By deepening the water outside the wall the bay can be made safe for navigation by the largest ocean carriers. What is more, by leaving large enough breaks in the wall a system of canals can be created that will add to the commercial advantages of the scheme and at the same time bring about an artistic development in the region that will be fully as fascinating as anything to be seen at Venice, in Holland or any other low country. It is to be hoped the idea will be developed seriously and at an early date.

AS LINCOLN DID

If there had been imprisonment for sedition during the civil war most of the leaders of the party of opposition would have been in jail at the close of the struggle. The state and national conventions of the Democrati cparty in 1862 and 1864 passed resolutions declaring the war a failure, characterizing the struggle for the maintenance of the union as a war of subjugation and denouncing Lincoln as a tryannical usurper. Lincoln had the good sense to discourage the jailing of opponents of the government's war policies; he believed it was better to "let them blow off" When a military court convicted Vallandingham of Ohio of encouraging resistance to the draft, Lincoln refused to approve the sentence of imprisonment and commuted it to one of banishment across the Confederate lines; then let Vallandigham, whose speeches were far more incendiary and dangerous than those of Debs, slip home through Canada and get beaten overwhelmingly as a candidate for governor of Ohio

After the civil war no one was put in jail or kept in jail for sedition or treason Even the effort to prosecute Jefferson Davis "petered out." There were reasons enough for prosecution on both accounts, but Lincoln believed and the country believed that when war emergency was over it was time to relax war's rigorous practices. If all those in the country who had been treasonable or seditious during the civil war had been punished in accordance with the terms of the constitution and the laws, the jails would have held half the civil population.

There is as much tolerance and comomn sense in the country today as there was at the close of the civil war. There are plenty of perfectly good theoretical arguments in favor of keeping Debs and other violators of the sedition act in jail, but the characteristic American spirit of tolerance and common sense suggested the release of those jailed under the war statutes affecting the public expression of private opinion. It was very appropriately suggested many months ago that Eugene Debs in jail could do far more effective service in behalf of socialism and pacifism than he could out of jail. Of the personal honesty and sincerity of Debs there is no doubt; that is more than can be said of most revolutionary raidcals. He is an old man, an honest if mistaken man, with an invalid wife, and the vast majority of the American people, including a vast majority of the American world war soldiers, approve of the action of President Harding in giving Debs his liberty. The effort to discredit the administration on account of this act of humanity and common sense will not get vary far, because the American people are not by nature vengeful or believers in the soviet method of keeping perpetually in prison those who do not agree in principle with the government in power.

Nothing saddens an older person like seeing two young people marry, who, he thinks, are bound to make a failure, and few things irritate him so much as to find out later that they haven't.

Now that there are no longer faces on the barroom floor and curfews don't ring tonight, the elocutionist has abandoned his job and may be found playing a sobbing saxophone.

SENATOR PENROSE

In the death of Senator Boies Penrose not only has the great state of Pennsylvania suffered a distinct loss, but the whole nation as well. He wielded a vast power, had wonderful influence which he used for the benefit of his fellow man. His skill for organization won him success. No man in the senate had more influence, yet withal he was not an autocrat but a plain, humble citizen, ever ready to listen to the appeals of the meek and lowly. Senator Penrose will be missed, more particularly by his constituents for whom he was always working and struggling during all the years of his public career. The nation mourns his loss.

The difference between a good and a bad doctor is that the former sometimes knows that he does not understand a case and the latter never does.

The report of the social service commission presented by Mrs. Katherine C. Wood, chairman, showed a deficit in the fund because of a reduction in the budget and the financing of the juvenile home and the emergency hospital. Reductions in expenses were recommended as follows:

Emergency hospital staff reduced to matron, who will be caretaker.

Discontinuing dental services at Redwood City and South San Francisco.

Reduction in expense for milk for undernourished children from $175 to $75 a month.

Mr. Squires said he had called on Miss Smith and she admitted having made the statements, but declined to give the name of her informant. MENLO PARK NEWS

Look out for "Dangerous Curves Ahead" at the Menlo Theater Sunday and Monday evenings.

Gustave Husteden, assistant manager of the Little Green Door, accompanied by Westley Schenkle, left for Reno, Nev., on Thursday. While in the Sagebrush state he will inspect his mining property. During his absence his position will be filled by James Burke.

On Christmas eve an employe of the Shell Oil Company, while driving his car past the Duff & Doyle store, ran the machine into the big show windows of the W. A. Doyle real estate office, wrecking them completely. The car skidded when passing the corner on the slippery highway. The plate glass window was insured.

On Monday the students of the St. Joseph parochial school enjoyed a Christmas festival in the assembly hall of the school. Santa Claus distributed gifts to all the children. A splendid program was rendered by the various classes. Father O'Kelly delivered a pleasing address to the parents and children.

The pantomime given in the Hall of the Nativity Friday night was well attended, the hall being filled to capacity. The pantomime representing the birth of Christ was under the direction of Miss Christine Donohoe, a painter and artist of well known ability. The scenery was painted by her and showed skill and artistic taste. Those taking part demonstrated the result of their numerous rehearsals. Among those who attended was Archbishop E. J. Hanna of San Francisco. After the performance the archbishop congratulated Miss Donohoe on her work and complimented all who took part.

Senator S. M. Shortridge left for Los Angeles Wednesday, from which place he will proceed to the national capital to be in time for the opening session of congress on January 3. His son, John, underwent a slight operation in San Francisco on Tuesday. This gave the senator much anxiety, but before he departed for the south the young man was recovering nicely and will soon be home. Senator Shortridge has loads of work ahead of him. He hopes to accomplish much for California during the session.

The Bear Gulch Water Company has filed an application with the state railroad commission for authority to issue $45,000 of first mortgage gold bonds bearing 5 per cent interest and to sell the bonds at a price to yield 7 per cent to the purchaser. It is stated in the application that the proceeds are to be used to pay in part capital expenditures amounting to $60,374.65. The commission took the application under consideration and will render a decision in the mater at a later date.

A beautiful granite mausoleum is to be erected in Cypress Lawn cemetery on the property of the Felton estate. The main contract has been let to the McGilvray Raymond Granite Company, which will do the stone work at a cost of $9,750. John Foster will do the bronze and metal work, and the plumbing will be done by the James H. Pinkerton Company.

The rainfall for the storm Thursday was .28 of an inch, making 6.02 inches for the season as against 9.13 at this time last year. The rainfall is still below normal.

The storm of Sunday morning last did much damage in and around Menlo Park. Many sturdy oaks were blown flat and fences in many places were blown down. A large poplar tree at the Catholic church was blown down across the pathway leading to the edifice. Had it come down when the congregation was coming out many lives might have been lost. There was midnight mass Sunday morning, the people leaving the church at about 1 o'clock. The tree must have dropped to the ground an hour or two afterward.

The Menlo Park Hotel will be opened under the new management with a blaze of glory this evening. Make your reservations.

WOODSIDE

Frank H. Evers has purchased from J. J. Tynan a tract of 103.4 acres facing on the county road between Woodside and Portola. The property is a portion of what is known a sthe Hugh Kelly ranch and is beautifully wooded. The purchase price was $25,000.

The red berries are disappearing rapidly. The robins are devouring them and San Francisco people are hauling them to the city. In a short time there will be none tobe seen

Many pieces of real estate in this locality will change hands during the coming month. Two of the deals are of large magnitude.

ADVICE TO "FOOLISH WIVES"

A husband in hand is worth two in court.

Your husband will never outgrow the boy stage. Treat him as such and he'll cuddle like an infant.

Foolish wives are those who buy heavy glasses to find their husbands' weaknesses.

Taffy now is better than epitaphy later. Say it with kind words—flowers wilt.

You've got him—let the others worry.

If he says he has been at a lodge meeting, believe him. You won't add to your peace of mind by learning otherwise.

If you don't tell him he's wonderful, there's a flapper waiting around the corner who will.

If half he tells you is true—let the other half slide.

By Rupert Hughes, author of the new Goldwyn master picture,

He edited Godey's and one or two other magazines in London before devoting himself entirely to the writing of plays and novels and books and articles on musical subjects. It was only a few years ago that Mr. Hughes first turned his attention to motion pictures, but his "Scratch My Back," "Hold Your Horses," "The Old Nest" and now "Dangerous Curves Ahead" have given him the foremost position among screen writers.
